WEDNESDAY MORNING DEC 24 1862

Repulse of Burnside's Army —Aspect of Affairs

Gen Burnside has been repulsed in his attempt to force the passage of the Rappahannock and take the straight road to Richmond There is no proof that it was impossible to drive the Confederates from their intrenched lines but it is likely that the success of the movement was doubtful, and the cost too great for the advantages gained Some of our cotemporaries have affected to discover some profound strategy in Burnside's withdrawal, we do not see it He was simply repulsed or desisted from the attack

It is understood that Gen Halleck ordered the forward movement and left to Burnside the choice of measures in the field So that Halleck will probably support his inferior in his conduct so far the more particularly, as he showed the utmost skill in the conduct of affairs both in the battle and re-crossing of the Rappahannock There were no panic-stricken corps in the battle, no loss of field-batteries no mistake in timing the attacks of the different grand divisions and no recriminations between officers Our wounded were all picked up, the artillery was brought off entire, the dead were buried, and, in short, the work was done as if there was a master mind at the head of the army The fact that there is perfect subordination in the Army of the Potomac, at last, is worth 100,000 men The signs are cheering the Union force are at length capable of making grand combined maneuvres in numbers never exceeded and rarely equalled in modern times

New elements are being developed in the contest Gen Bank's force has probably debarked on the coast of North Carolina, to reinforce Gen Foster and attack Richmond in the rear, co operating with the forces at Suffolk, and moving by the way of Petersburg At Suffolk there are thirty three thousand Federals, in North Carolina, under Foster sixteen thousand, and Banks has over thirty thousand, making in all over seventy-five thousand men The Southern defences of Richmond are garrisoned by twenty four thousand men, according to the latest advices, and are commanded by Gen. Gustavus W. Smith, one of the ablest military men of the age The Federals can have the advantage of naval co-operation at the crossing of the Appomatox, twelve miles below Petersburg and twenty four miles from Richmond If the Confederates were to dispatch a force, exceeding Banks' in numbers, to oppose him, he would still be safe on the south side of the Appomatrox, and ready to strike, when the Confederates ceased to guard In any case, Gen. Smith will probably need fifty thousand men to make the Southern approaches of Richmond safe

Gen Rosekrans is evidently bent on occupying East Tennessee and shutting up Cumberland Gap, permanently The railroad from Richmond to the Gap, is used to draw supplies from the Southwest, and affords a line of retreat to the rebels in Virginia. They are likely to be deprived of it So important is this line of communication, that the Confederates have not only concentrated all their forces available for its defence, but the redoubted Jeff Davis himself has come from Richmond to re animate the drooping spirits of his followers He is evidently alive to the dangers threatening his cause in East Tennessee, and gives his personal attention to affairs there, even while such dangers threaten it in the East.

There is no news of Gen McClernand's Mississippi Expedition but it must prove a valuable auxiliary to the general plan of the winter campaign It is composed of near fifty veteran regiments of Western troops and a powerful flotilla It cannot but be successful

Gen Grant's inactivity is not accounted for by the news dispatches, but the withdrawal of Gen Hovey's forces from Grenada may have something to do with it

Serious Affray at Olympia —On the 20th of October last, an attempt was made to fire the buildings owned by the Puget Sound Agricultural Company in Lewis county, W T The Overland Press, of the 10th of November, published at Olympia in noticing the matter, spoke of a man named Horace Howe as being the incendiary Mr Howe was in Olympia on the 20th of December, and was in front of the Pacific House, when he saw the editor of the Press, B F Kendall, conversing with a gentleman Howe approached Kendall and struck him with a hazel-stick, of small dimensions Kendall at once ran across the street; Howe following him Kendall, still retreating and still pursued drew a revolving pistol and commenced firing at Howe—the third shot striking him, passed through the cartilage of the tenth rib on the left side, and entered the bowels Internal hemorrhage supervened and Howe's recovery is doubtful Kendall fired a fourth shot The above facts are condensed from the Standard

Rich quartz has been struck near the old Ish claims at Jacksonville

A very large amount [illegible] in this State was this season planted [illegible] capable of supplying that species of food in superabundance at a low price But this season was marred by drought and in many parts of the State the [illegible] was seriously injured so that there will be no superabundance and scarcely more than was produced last year from much less land planted in that greatest of cereals The production of rice too this year, has been curtailed to a considerable extent by the removal of planters from the tide water region

Still, the season for rice has been good and those who have planted have generally made good crops If saved the rice crop will very materially aid in supporting our people and the army collected for our defence We therefore trust that prompt and vigorous efforts will be made by the planters to reap the fruits of their summer's exertions, and that our authorities will afford every facility and co operation in making this large resource of subsistence available It is a matter of no trifling importance to our people and to the operations of our forces Timely exertions may prevent much trouble and expense and suffering

News of December 15th.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec 15 —The Press Washington special dispatch states that General Banks had landed at Winton Head, on the Chowan river and formed a junction with the troops at Suffolk It is supposed that he is advancing on Weldon Gen Banks has assumed the chief command of the troops under Gens Foster Peck, Auger and Emory

A letter from Fortress Monroe on Sunday says that Plymouth, N C has been destroyed by fire, but by what division of the Federal army is not known A scouting party from Suffolk had some skirmishing on Friday at Joiner's Ford and captured two rebel captains with 15 privates

NEWBERN, N C, Dec 10 —The free labor movement which has been extensively but quietly organized in Eastern North Carolina, is now understood to be preparatory to an organization of the Government of the State on a loyal basis, so that North Carolina may accept President Lincoln's policy of compensated emancipation

FORTRESS MONROE, Dec 14 —Southern papers say that Gen Foster's North Carolina force is designed to co operate with the Yankees at Suffolk against Richmond, either by direct advance upon Petersburg or by attempting to seize our railroad communications at Weldon

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF POTOMAC, Dec 15 —There was considerable firing yesterday, between the advance of both armies The rebels showed a disposition to move against Franklin's forces, but did not We had some skirmishing this morning, with considerable artillery firing The weather to-day is clear and warm, and the roads are in very good condition The position of the armies remains nearly the same There is but little artillery firing, this afternoon, by either party The enemy who are in plain view are engaged in strengthening their forts About 700 prisoners have been taken since our army crossed the river

WASHINGTON, Dec 15,—On Wednesday evening our gunboats at Port Royal, 27 miles from Federicksburg were fired into by a rebel battery, supposed to number 20 guns The firing was rapid, and continued till sundown when the battery was silenced The next morning the gunboats again opened on the batteries, but received no response Our loss was 2 killed and 3 wounded

NEW YORK, Dec 16,—The papers this morning contain nothing new from Fredericksburg The whole number killed, wounded and missing in Franklin's grand division, is 5 952 Our army on Sunday was engaged principally in taking care of its wounded and burying such of its dead as could be recovered from the battle field Burnside has been reinforced by Gen Sigel's corps He unquestionably has good reasons for delaying another attack upon the enemy's lines

NEW YORK Dec 15 —A vessel has arrived which reports, on the 10th having passed four steamers and one brig, heavily laden with troops going into Port Royal

Hilton Head advices by the gunboat Bienville mention that an expedition is projected against Mobile Two steamers left on the 10th with troops for the South

The rebels in the vicinity of Hilton Head have erected powerful batteries on James and Sullivan's island and along the coast as far as Bull's Bay Beauregard was entrenching Charleston with 40 000 men The health of our troops at Port Royal was good

The Richmond Examiner says that the preparations of the United States to subjugate the South are now truly gigantic In the East West and North, on land and water—everywhere and on all sides—the movements of the Federal armies and fleets indicate zeal hope and fanaticism, and a desperate avidity that should banish from every Southerner's mind all thought of an early peace, and nerve every loyal Southern hand for battle, in which there will be no quarter Northern Virginia is again overrun Richmond Petersburg Weldon, Charleston Mobile are once more threatened Texas undefended lies helpless bleeding at every pore The enemy's forces are being concentrated in Missouri and Kansas for the invasion of Arkansas Communication between the West and Richmond is menaced at Chattanooga and Knoxville The Mississippi river and its tributaries are bristling with gunboats for operations as soon as the floods come

CAIRO, Dec 15 —The steamer Lake City was burned by guerrillas at Carson Landing 15 miles above the mouth of White river, on Monday last The boat and cargo were valued at two hundred thousand dollars The next day the naval dispatch boat De Soto went to Carson Landing and burned forty two houses Most of the luggage belonging to passengers on the Lake City was recovered. The citizens of that place claim to have done all they could to prevent the burning of the Lake City and a courier was sent to Helena to ask protection Before the arrival of the courier however the De Soto had accomplished the destruction of the town

General Hovey's expedition into Mississippi has returned to Helena The results sum up twenty of the enemy killed forty wounded and four hundred taken prisoners among the number several officers The Federal loss was four killed twenty wounded and ten taken prisoners

The Memphis Bulletin states that General Sherman had returned to Memphis and was organizing another expedition against the rebels at [illegible] between Canton and Jackson

WASHINGTON Dec 15 —At [illegible] o'clock last night 400 rebel cavalry made a dash into Poolsville Maryland, where 25 Federals were stationed After a brief but determined struggle a dwelling building in which the Federals were quartered was fired our men surrendered The rebels lost two killed and three wounded

News of December 16th

WASHINGTON Dec 16 —The following dispatch dated Falmouth 8 45 this morning has just been received [illegible] last the river is rising rapidly and all our troops are on this side of the river and the pontoons up

HEADQUARTERS OF THE ARMY OF THE POTOMAC December 16th—1 P M During [illegible] the Army of the Potomac evacuated its position on the opposite side of the river The movement was a perilous one, but was conducted in safety The artillery was the first to cross the river The last of the infantry brought up the rear shortly after daylight The enemy never discovered the movement until it was too late to do us any damage As soon as the last man got safely across the river the pontoon bridges were removed cutting off communication between the shores Our wounded are all safe on this side of the river A heavy wind prevailed all last night accompanied by considerable rain which assisted us in our movement to prevent the rebels from learning our intentions

NEW YORK, Dec 16 —The Washington correspondent of the Commercial Advertiser of the 15th says if our army is crowned with victory before Fredericksburg it will insure the appointment of Judge Holt as successor to Secretary Smith but should any mishap occur, it may lead to a reconstruction of the Cabinet and recall of McClellan to command Already we have speculations and rumors on the subject but like everything else, the war news is to decide In the meanwhile, almost every one is excited with feverish impatience

The Tribune has a special dispatch from Nashville, giving an account of the violation of a flag of truce on the Murfreesboro Turnpike by which fifty eight of the Fourth Michigan were captured.

A scout from Murfreesboro says that Jeff Davis, in a speech there on Friday said that Tennessee must be held at all hazards General Polk also made a speech, and said he expected Grant to be defeated in the next battle, and then Nashville is to be assailed There are about forty thousand rebels between Murfreesboro and Nashville

Forest with three regiments of cavalry, left Manchester on Thursday last, for the purpose of crossing the Cumberland river below Nashville to cut off the railroad communication

CHICAGO, December 16th —Reports concerning Banks' expedition are still contradictory Telegrams from Boston say that a Port Royal letter of the 10th states it passed there on the 8th, bound south One of his steamers had broken down and was towed into that port

BALTIMORE Dec 16,—It is reported by the Old Point boat that the English steamer Cadmus reports having seen a large fleet entering Cape Fear River

CAIRO, December 16 —Nothing new from Oxford General Grant has issued an order respecting Kentucky, that as that State has fulfilled the requirements of the Constitution of the United States and the laws of Congress, by choosing Union men to fill State offices and execute laws, the military authorities are prohibited from any interference —The military is not to be used except to suppress riots and mob resistance to the laws all civil authority that can be effected at military posts will be permitted

Congressional Proceedings

WASHINGTON, December 15 —In the Senate, Mr Davis offered a resolution, that after the insurrection against the United States was about to break out, James Buchanan, then President, from sympathy with the conspirators, failed to take proper means to prevent it, therefore, he should receive the censure of the Senate It was laid over

In the House, Mr Kellogg, of Illinois, offered a resolution which was adopted, instructing the Committee on Territories to inquire into the expediency of establishing a Territorial Government for that region of country in which are the Salmon River gold mines

WASHINGTON, December 15 —In the House yesterday, Fessenden of Maine, offered a resolution that the President's proclamation of the 22d September (the Emancipation Proclamation) is warranted by the Constitution, and that the policy of emancipation as indicated therein is well adapted to hasten the restoration of peace is well chosen as a war measure, and is an exercise of power with proper regard to the rights of the citizens and the perpetuity of free government

A motion to lay on the table was disagreed to by 78 against 80 The resolution was then adopted by 78 to 57

In the Senate Mr McDougall offered the following resolutions

Resolved That this Government will maintain its payment in coin of any interest or indebtedness, and consider it a breach of public faith to do otherwise

Resolved That duties on imports shall continue to be paid in coin and all issues of Demand Notes and when the latter cease to be sufficient for the purpose of such payments they shall thereafter be paid in coin

They were referred to the Committee on Finance

Mr Wilkinson of Minnesota offered a bill for the relief of persons for damages sustained by the recent Indian depredations which was referred

The Senate also referred the bill to remove the Winnebago and Sioux tribes from Minnesota and the sale of their reservation for their benefit and assigning them a new reservation near the Missouri River sufficient to give eighty acres of good agricultural land to each individual those who endeavored to protect the massacre to be allowed to remain and retain one hundred and sixty acres each

The army bill reported from the Committee of Ways and Means appropriates $[illegible],000 000 for the year ending June, 1864

The resolution censuring ex President Buchanan was taken up and debated at some length Mr Saulsbury moved that a copy be furnished to Mr Buchanan and he be allowed to defend himself On motion of Mr Grimes the whole matter was laid on the table by a vote of [illegible] to [illegible]

NO CONNECTION —There was no express connection above Dalles, by last night's boat We are in consequence left without Walla Walla and Lewiston exchanges and news from the mining regions generally

FOUND DEAD —The Mountaineer says an elderly man known as the Old Emigrant was found dead in the river at the foot of Court street Dalles, on the morning of the 21st inst It is not known whether his death arose from accident or design.

The Daily Oregonian.

The MORNING OREGONIAN has a larger SUBSCRIPTION LIST than any other Daily published in this City.

PORTLAND PICKLED IN POETRY.—The City of Portland has of late been on its good behavior. The police say that it is impossible to find a subject for the Recorder's Court, and locals have consequently become so scarce that there was an opinion that the local department of this paper showed signs of a disposition to suspend. Cogitating on those occurrences that stubbornly refuse to turn up, we came in contact with a poem, published in the Eugene City Review and claimed as the production of one AGRICOLA, which pretends to give a description of this city and some of its leading characteristics, interspersed with moral reflections. As the Oregonian does not wish to father the sentiments of the author we only copy it and accompany it with remarks, to give the people a chance to see themselves as they are seen by a real, live, traveling Oregon poet. Agricola is supposed to be coming down from Oregon City, a place, by the way, which he regards with feelings of "mingled pleasure and pity," when he comes in sight of Portland. But let him tell his own story:

An hour's ride adown the tide
And Portland is before me,
But naught is here to charm or cheer
Or throw a glad thought o'er me.
Though buzz and business crowd her streets
And many a stranger stranger meets
And though her skirts are stretching wide
From river's banks to mountain's sides—
And though her wharves are white with sail
That from many a distant sea port hail
These are but works of hands of clay
That soon must mingle dust with dust
And these bright spires, what are they
A day they gleam, then rot and rust
Relentless claim their common sway
The church, the court, the pleasure hall
Must totter, crumble and decay
For man and man's but rise to fall
And nameless, fameless pass away

It is evident that this poet of the Oregon species has at least two attributes of modern poets,—a contempt of riches and a disposition to look at the black side of things. The first couplet in the next selection might be considered personal by a portion of our fellow-citizens, but we ask them to remember that it is but the "poet's license," and means nothing.

The men that throng yon crowded street
And plot and plan to gain and cheat
Will not stay long, but one by one,
They'll pass away with scarce a tear
Of grief shed o'er their bed or bier—
They'll pass away unmarked, alone,
With naught to show that they have been—
With naught to keep their memories green
With friend or foe or kith or kin
Except the evil they have done
They'll drop away unmarked, unmissed,
But strangers [illegible] on life's great list,
As quickly as they quit the race
Another swarm will take their place,
And hold as their inheritance,
Their [illegible] without their innocence

It is some comfort to know that those who plan and cheat will catch blazes in the next world, and that if their children act as he says they will, that they will be punished in this. It is quite certain that Agricola is [illegible] us. If so, we want him. A man that has got the "spread" that he has is just the man to write about local matters when there is nothing to write about.

BAD CASE.—Richard Fitzgerald was drunk and [illegible] yesterday, and while in that condition was violent and disorderly in his disposition towards people in general. Notwithstanding his illustrious patronymic, which he bears in common with the gallant, noble and chivalric Geraldines of Kildare and [illegible], he was guilty of the sin of being abusive and threatening to the wife of his [illegible]. It was whisky not Fitzgerald that did this thing, but the Recorder thought that he ought to pay for it, so he charged him $15 for his fun, which he had not paid at last ac[illegible]. If he does not pay it, he will have [illegible] City jail for ten days.

FINED AND CONFINED.—James Powell is a [illegible] resident of the rural districts, when he is at home. He drank to intoxication yesterday, and being found in that state was fined $5, which he did not have, and consequently was sent to the City jail to cool off, and three days allowed for him to do it.

PRIVATE ENTERPRISE.—If the City Council at its next meeting, will pass a resolution that the City will not pay any part of the expense of removing the mud from the streets, it will relieve a large number of property holders, who are hoping against hope that the City in some way to do work which justly belongs to the owners of City lots.

MEATS FOR A CHRISTMAS DINNER.—Messrs Weeks, Gilmore & Co., successors to Johnson & Perkins, on the corner of Washington and First streets, keep up the holiday practice of their predecessors, by having on hand an elegant and appetizing assortment of meats, poultry and everything in their line of business, for the delectation of their patrons. As everybody in this favored land can afford a feast on Christmas, we say to everybody go to Weeks, Gilmore & Co.'s for your turkeys.

TO LOVERS OF MUSIC.—The reader will find, in our advertising columns, a notice of one of Gilbert & Co's 6¾ octave pianos, with Æolian Attachment, which is offered for sale by E. G. Randall, for $300. The instrument [illegible] the peculiarity of being played with or without the Attachment, and the Æolian can be played as a melodeon, possessing the power of one of Mason's 5 octave melodeons. It is in the form of a square piano, and for delicacy of touch, flexibility, purity and combination of harmonic sounds, has never had its superior offered in this market. Somebody can get a cheap and elegant instrument for a holiday present for wife, daughter, or sister, by buying it.

SAILS.—The Steamer Sierra Nevada sails for San Francisco to-morrow morning at 6 o'clock. Passengers will find it best to go aboard and stay over night.

[illegible]—Steamship Sierra Nevada, Conner Master, left San Francisco Dec 17th; touched at Trinidad and Crescent City, landing mails and passengers; detained six hours; arrived at Esquimalt 20th at 9 P. Maxims Concerning Patriotism.

A patriot is one who heartily wisheth the public prosperity, and doth not only wish but also study and endeavor to promote it.

Gamesters fops, rakes bullies, stock jobbers alas what patriots!

Some writers have thought it impossible that men should be brought to laugh at public spirit. Yet this has been done in the present age

The patriot aims at his private good in the public The knave makes the public subservient to his private interest The former considers himself as part of a whole the latter considers himself as the whole

There is and ever will be a natural strife between court and country The one will get as much and the other give as little as it can. How must the patriot behave himself?

He gives the necessary If he gives more, it is with a view of gaining more to his country

A patriot will never barter the public money for his private gain

Moral evil is never to be committed physical evil may be incurred either to avoid a greater evil, or to procure a good

Where the heart is right, there is true patriotism

In your man of business, it is easier to meet with a good head than a good heart

A patriot will admit there may be honest men, and that honest men may differ

He that always blames, or always praises, is no patriot

Were all sweet and sneaking courtiers, or were all sour malcontents, in either case the public would thrive but ill

A patriot would hardly wish there was no contrast in the state

Ferments of the worst kind succeed to perfect inaction

A man rages, rails, and raves; I suspect his patriotism

The fawning courtier and the surly squire often mean the same thing, each his own interest

A patriot will esteem no man for being of his party

The factious man is apt to mistake himself for a patriot —Bishop Berkeley

Take Care of our Thoughts—A care of our thoughts is the greatest preservative against actual sins It is a most certain truth that the greatest sin that ever was committed, was at first but a thought. The foulest wickedness, the most monstrous impiety, arose from so small a speck as a first thought may be resembled to The most horrid thing that ever was done, as well as the most noble and virtuous action that ever was accomplished, had no greater beginning than this

Of such quick growth and spreading nature is sin, that rivals even the kingdom of heaven, which our Lord likened unto a grain of mustard seed But the apostle James represented it by a simile of another nature, comparing the origin and growth of it to that of the mushroom, that springeth up in a night. It is absolutely necessary that we govern and manage our thoughts, without which it will be impossible that we should avoid falling into actual sins, even the greatest, that we resist the beginnings, the very first emergencies of evil, if we hope to avoid the last degrees of it

Don't Write There—"Dont write there," said one to a lad, who was writing with a diamond pin on a pane of glass in a window of a hotel "Why not?" was the reply "Because you cant rub it out"—There are other things which men should not do because they cannot rub them out. A heart is aching for sympathy, and a cold, perhaps a heartless word is spoken The impression may be more durable than the diamond upon the glass The inscription on the glass may be destroyed by the fracture of the glass, but the impression on the heart may last forever. On many a mind and many a heart there are sad inscriptions, deeply engraved, which no effort can erase We should be careful what we write on the minds of others

Religion in Daily Life—Religion is not the perpetual moping over good books Religion is not even prayer, holy ordinances. These are necessary to religion—no man can be religious without them But religion is mainly and chiefly the glorifying of God among the duties and trials of the world, the guiding of our course amid the adverse winds and currents of temptation, by the starlight of duty, and the compass of divine truth, the bearing up manfully, wisely, courageously, of the honor of Christ, our great leader in the conflict of life

Piety and Profits—A gentleman who employs a large number of hands in a manufactory in the west of England, in order to encourage a due attendance at church on a late fast day, told them that if they went to church they should receive their wages as though they had been at work Upon which a deputation was appointed to tell their employer that if he would pay them for over hours, they would likewise attend the Methodist Chapel in the evening

Preaching and Practice—Dr Channing had a brother, a physician, and at one time they both lived in Boston One day a countryman in search of the divine, rapped at the doctor's door, when the following dialogue ensued, "Does Mr Channing live here?" "Yes sir" "Can I see him?"—"I am he" "Who—you?" "Yes sir" "You must have altered considerably since I heard you preach" "Oh, I see your mistake now. It's my brother who preaches I practice

A "Settler"—A one legged orator, named Jones, was very successful in bantering an Irishman, when the latter asked him "How did you lose your leg?"—"Well," said Jones, "on examining my pedigree and looking upon my descent, I found there was some Irish blood in me, and becoming convinced it was all settled in that left leg, I had it cut off at once"—"Be the powers" said Pat, "it 'ud av bin a good thing if it had only settled in your head."

Rich men have commonly more need to be taught contentment than the poor because all men's expectations grow faster than their fortunes
